STOCKHOLDERS OF FIRST NATIONAL BANK ARE GUESTS

Hear Policy Defined, History of Institution "With Chime Clock" Around Festive Board.

Stockholders of the First National Bank of Gettysburg met the officers, directors and workers of the bank socially, and heard bank problems, policy, history and operation discussed at a dinner at the Hoffman Hotel Friday evening at which the stockholders were guests of the bank. There were about 100 in attendance.

It was the first social of its kind ever held here and, according to a Philadelphia banker who was among the special guests, it was the first affair of its kind ever held anywhere to his knowledge. Printed programs contained a summarized statement of the condition of the bank financially at the close of business September 27, and a list of the officers and directors of the institution, which has become known as the Gettysburg "bank with the chime clock."

A feature of the program was an address by H. S. Risley, vice president of William Elliott Graves, Inc., of Chicago. The toastmaster was Edmund W. Thomas, vice president and general manager of the bank, and in introducing him, Edwin C. Tyson, the bank's president, paid Mr. Thomas an impressive tribute on his "splendid integrity and loyalty to the bank, and the community, and the fine manner in which he has built up the bank during his years of work as its chief executive officer." He said the directors "have found it a pleasure and profit to back Mr. Thomas' judgment and action one hundred per cent at all times."

The history of the First National Bank of Gettysburg was given briefly by D. C. Jacobs, of Arentzville, whose ancestors held the presidency of the institution the first fifty years of its existence. The policy of the institution was defined by M. E. Knouse, a director, and he cited figures to show the growth and stability of the bank in recent years. He explained the policy which has governed the bank in making its loans and said all loans were made only after the character, capability of the applicant to repay, and collateral had been considered by the bank officials.

Preceding the addresses, each member of the staff of the bank was introduced by Mr. Thomas and stood up.

Mr. Risley spoke on "What Stockholders Can Do To Help Their Banks Grow" and he presented some interesting facts regarding Adams county, taken from U. S. census return and other official sources.

C. E. SOCIETY HOLDS SOCIAL

The annual fall social of the Senior Christian Endeavor Society of St. James Lutheran church was held Friday evening in the social parlors of the church, which were prettily decorated. A program was given preceding the social hour. More than eighty persons attended the affair.

The program follows: Piano solo, Miss Kathleen Thomas; address of welcome, Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor; readings, Mrs. Allen Deardorff; duet, Miss Dorothy Crouse and Ralph Mumma; reading, Miss Marjorie Hummer; remarks, Miss Vesta Stallsmith, president of the society, who introduced the following officers and committee chairman: Oliver Heil, vice president; Miss Margaret Schwartz, treasurer; Miss Marian Mumper, corresponding secretary; Miss Anna Zeigler, recording secretary; Miss Freda Troxell, pianist; Miss Mae Lady, assistant pianist; Henry Neikirk, chorister; Miss Edith Wright, Miss Erma Krout, Miss Sara Black, Miss Edith Clare and Harry Walmsley. After a number of games, of which Albert Speck had charge, refreshments were served.

Members of the social committee who planned the affair were Miss Edith Wright, chairman; Misses Erma Krout, Freda Troxell, Marjorie Hummer and Mae Lady, Oliver Heil, Albert Speck, Harry Walmsley and Harry Allemen.

Confederate Avenue Is Being Repaired

Work was begun today on the resurfacing of Confederate avenue from the Wheatfield to the Lincoln Highway. The present rutty road will be torn up and rebuilt with stones, chips and tar.

The work is in charge of the M. and T. E. Farrell company, and is to cost approximately $5,000. The contract is to be finished in 30 working days.

KLAN CROWD HELD DOWN BY RAIN

Number Falls Far Short of 10,000 Expected For Parade to Be Held Today.

The anticipated 10,000 members of the Pennsylvania Realm of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan who were to be here today for the celebration and parade this evening failed to materialize by several thousand an hour before the parade was scheduled to start. The rain came in for its full share of the blame for depleting the ranks of the Knights, but a small percentage gathered for the exercises held this afternoon, which were scheduled to include an address of welcome by Burgess C. A. Heiges, and a response by an imperial representative, the dedication of children to the Klan and a drill by Cavaliers and Kourier girls.

The cloak of secrecy had been drawn over the proceedings and no information concerning the number naturalized Friday evening at the only sessions which were barred to the public could be secured. A large number of local residents managed to drive past the field, located along the Lincoln Highway about a mile and a half east of town, during the evening, but from their vantage point very little was discernible.

This evening the grand dragon of Pennsylvania will lecture at 8 o'clock while at 9 o'clock the major klegale will address the women of the organization. A play, "The Making of a Klansman," will be given at 9:30 o'clock by the Rev. Bruce Lehman, On Sunday services will be held in the auditorium, Fourth and Hanover streets, with a sermon by the Rev. H. C. Shaw. The afternoon program will start at 2 o'clock with special music followed by an address, "Klanhaven and why all Klanspeople should support it," by C. B. Lewis.

MARKET PRICES LITTLE CHANGED

An abundant curb market greeted local buyers this morning, with little change in any prices for farm products. Eggs dropped from 47 cents a dozen last Saturday to 45 cents a dozen. Butter was firm at 50 cents a pound.

Smokehouse and Banana apples were exceptionally plentiful, selling at $1 a bushel. Grapes were bought up rapidly at $1 a bushel. Potatoes sold at $2 a bushel.

Pumpkins, red beets, carrots, old and spring chickens were plentiful, with little change in prices.

Peaches told from 75 cents to $2 a bushel. Scapple was 15 cents a pound and fresh country sausage was 35 cents a pound.

DEFEATED G. O. P. CANDIDATE WINS DRY NOMINATION

Harry C. Stock Unaware of Honor Until Today; Will Not Make Campaign.

Harry C. Stock, of New Oxford, defeated for the Republican nomination for re-election as Adams county representative in the state legislature, unknowingly won the nomination for that office on the Prohibition ticket in the May primary.

Mr. Stock first learned of his nomination as Prohibition party candidate from a representative of The Gettysburg Times today after a copy of the official Adams county ballot was received by R. E. Deardorff, clerk to the county commissioners, from Clyde L. King, secretary of the commonwealth.

Asked if he was contemplating a campaign as Prohibition candidate for the legislature, Mr. Stock expressed astonishment that his name appeared on the ballot for the November election.

Unaware of Nomination
"No," he continued, "I will not make a campaign for the legislature on the Prohibition ticket. I did not know I had been nominated. This is a surprise to me."

According to Mr. Stock, he had received no official notification from the secretary of the state of his nomination by the Prohibition party for the legislature. Since time for withdrawing names from the ballot for the November election has passed, Mr. Stock's name will appear on Adams county ballots.

Mr. Stock was defeated for the Republican nomination in the May primary by G. R. Thompson, Gettysburg, a former sheriff of Adams county. The New Oxford man had served one term in the legislature.

Seven party names appear on the official ballot for the forthcoming election, which will be held November 2, one month from today. They are Republican, Democratic, Labor, Socialist, Prohibition, Commonwealth Land and Workers.

2 Tickets Completed
For the offices of United States Senator, Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs, nominations have been made by each of the seven parties, but in Adams county and in the Congressional district of Adams and York counties, complete tickets are listed for Republicans and Democrats, but incomplete tickets for Prohibitionists and Socialists.

To be balloted for in the Congressional district are Congressman Franklin Menges, Republican incumbent; S. F. Glatfelter, Democrat and a former congressman, and George E. Smith, Socialist.

For the State House of Representatives, the candidates are G. R. Thompson, Republican; Edward L. Weikert, Democrat, and Harry Stock, Prohibition.

Award of the contract for the printing of the specimen and official ballots for the general November election will be made by the county commissioners at their weekly meeting next Tuesday.

RURAL SCHOOL TEACHERS MEET

One hundred per cent attendance of beginning rural teachers was recorded at the special meeting held at the new Gettysburg High school building, Friday evening. W. Raymond Shank, county superintendent of schools, and Floyd Slaybaugh, assistant superintendent, addressed the gathering.

Instruction of teachers in the filling out of attendance cards was one of the high spots of the meeting.

W. VA. LAWYERS TOUR BATTLEFIELD

One hundred and fifty members of the West Virginia Bar Association toured the battlefield this afternoon, coming here from Martinsburg where annual sessions of the association were held this week.

The attorneys were taken over the battlefield by Harry Long and Warren Gilbert, guides. Luncheon was furnished at the Blue Parrot tea room.

TWO LOCAL MEN ON GRAND JURY

Ten Gettysburg Residents Drawn in Panel For Petit Juries For November Term.

The Adams county jury commissioners this morning filed the panels of the grand and petit juries for the November term of quarter sessions and common pleas court. The November term begins Monday morning, November 8.

Two Gettysburg men were drawn for grand jury duty and 10 for petit jury duty. No women were selected on either panel. Gettysburgians on the grand jury are Cletus Pitzer, First Ward, and M. W. Stansbury, Third Ward, while on the petit jury the following local men were chosen:

G. A. Taylor, Second Ward; J. E. Donaldson, Second Ward; Paul Martin, Second Ward; Willis Eckert, Second Ward; Edward L. Weikert, Jr., First Ward; Milton V. Fugitt, Third Ward; John A. Mumper, Third Ward; Robert Caldwell, Third Ward; James R. Ross, Second Ward, and Edward P. Little.

The following were chosen for grand jury duty:

Grand Jurors
John W. Black, Cumberland township; John A. Cease, Hamilton township; Otho D. Carey, Franklin; William A. Deatrick, Butler; Grant D. Deatrick, Tyrone; Ara C. Eichelberger, Tyrone; F. X. Gehring, Mt. Pleasant; E. H. Hikes, Huntington; W. D. Jacobs, Latimore; G. H. Jacobs, Highland; J. Calvin Lochbaum, Franklin; Simon P. Miller, Littlestown, Second Ward; Simon S. Orner, Butler township; Maurice K. Parr, Mt. Pleasant; Cletus Pitzer, Gettysburg First Ward; Harvey Pitzer, Menallen township; D. C. Plank, Liberty; M. W. Stansbury, Gettysburg, Third Ward; J. H. Scott, Highland township; David A. Y. W. C. A. TO OPEN WITH EXERCISES ON OCTOBER 22

Formal Dedication Will Be Held At Vespers Services On Sunday, October 24

Formal opening and organization of a Young Women's Christian Association in Gettysburg will be held in three-day exercises, starting Friday, October 22.

Announcement of the opening and organization of the Y. W. C. A. culminates the cherished dream and ambition of the late Mrs. Irene Reinwald, of Gettysburg, to have such a social and civic society formed here.

To hasten the day when a Y. W. C. A. could be organized with a proper building to house the various activities of such an organization, she bequeathed her home in Center Square in trust for that purpose and left a sum of money with which to endow the new project.

Expect National Officers

Friday evening, October 22, all women in Adams county over 18 years of age will be publicly invited to attend an organization meeting. The constitution for the new organization will be asked to sign the constitution as charter members.

It is planned to have a speaker from the National Y. W. C. A. to address the organization meeting, which will be held in the Y's home in Center Square.

The following day, Saturday, October 23, will be set aside as "Open House Day" when all men, women and children of Adams county will be welcome to pass through the home and see what Mrs. Reinwald's generosity has meant for women of Adams county. The hours for the open house will be from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock in the evening. There will be music throughout the day and light refreshments will be served to all visitors.

Dedication Sunday
Formal dedication of the building to the purposes of a Y. W. C. A. will take place at a vesper service to be held Sunday afternoon. The details of the dedicatory service have (Continued on Second Page.)

SHERDEL OPENS WORLD SERIES

"Wee Willie," a Bit Wild in First Inning, Walking Three Men, Allowing One Run.

(By Associated Press.)
Yankee Stadium, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Overcast skies giving a constant threat of rain were the foreboding prospect as thousands swarmed the gate of this mammoth plant this morning seeking admission to the first game of the world's series between the Yankees and Cardinals.

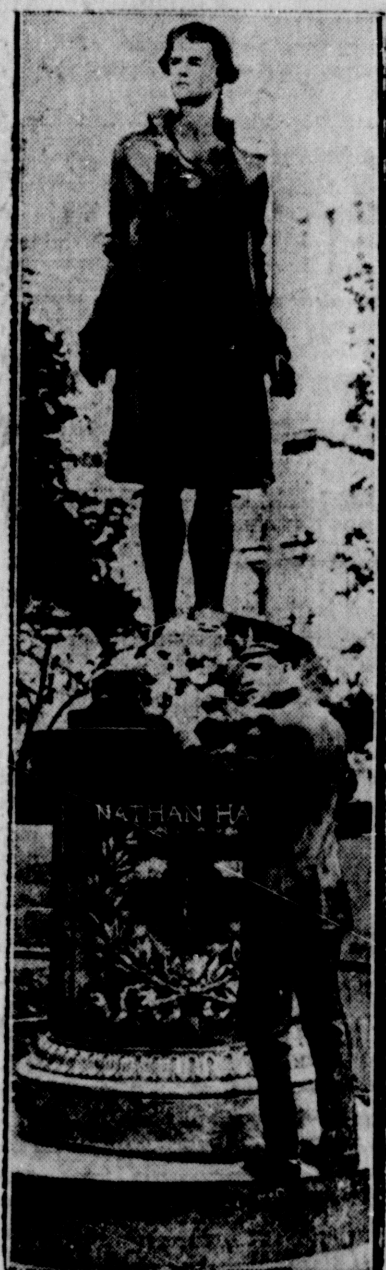

Hundreds of police were on hand to handle the lines of spectators. The gates opened at 10 o'clock and within half an hour fully 12,000 persons had filed into the unreserved section. At 11:50, the bleachers were three-quarters full while most of the upper two decks of the grand stand also were occupied.

At 11:45 a. m., the sun broke through the clouds and a few minutes later the advance guard of the Yankees came from their dug out for practice and the fans again let loose a wild outburst while photographers gathered around the players like flies.

A batting cage was wheeled into place and Babe Ruth, idol of metropolitan fandom, was the first to take a swing at the plate. Dutch Reuder, veteran southpaw, tossed the ball to the plate and the best Babe could do was a low liner that jumped up against the bleachers' wall.

Both Sherdel and Penneck picked to do the mound duty in the opening game were touched for one run apiece in the opening inning this afternoon, according to reports received over the radio at the Battery Shop. Sherdel was going a bit wild in his half of the inning, walking three men.

Wreath Goes

A wreath from Klan Nathan Hale No. 15, of Dover, New Jersey, the only one to be placed on Hale's monument in New York City for the 150th anniversary of his death, was removed by police.

MILK COMPANY TO BUILD RECEIVING STATION IN TOWN

Construction Will Be Started During Coming Week On Old Hotel Site.

A milk receiving station for the Fairfield Farms Company, of Baltimore, will be erected on the rear of the lot on Carlisle street, formerly occupied by the old Hotel Washington.

This became known at the October meeting of council, Friday evening, when Leroy Winebrenner, borough engineer, retained by the Baltimore concern as its surveyor and engineer, asked permission to run a railroad siding into the receiving station on such a line that a car on the tracks would obstruct about two feet of the sidewalk on Railroad street.

J. Donald Swope, borough solicitor, instructed council that they could not possibly allow the Baltimore milk company to obstruct the pavement, and permission was refused.

According to Mr. Winebrenner, the Fairfield Farms Company plans to beautify the grounds around its milk receiving station.

To Improve Land
A concrete driveway, bordered with shrubbery and flowers, is to be laid from Carlisle street to the rear of the lot, where the milk receiving station will be erected on the site of a present stable. Additional shrubbery and flowers are to be planted around the station, and the surroundings made as attractive as possible.

Council was informed by Mr. Winebrenner that the Baltimore concern, after opening the milk station, would run an express or refrigerator car into the proposed siding along the building in the forenoon, keeping it there until late afternoon, when it would be attached to the Baltimore evening train.

The Washington Hotel property was purchased by the Gettysburg and Harrisburg Transportation Company some months ago, presumably to use the site for the erection of a bus terminal and waiting room.

Work on the erection of the new milk receiving station and the beautification of the surroundings is expected to start Monday, according to Mr. Winebrenner.

POLICE STATION ORDERED CLOSED BY TOWN COUNCIL

Magistrate Fees For Motor Law Violators Reported To Be Erroneous By State.

When no one could inform council at its regular October meeting, Friday evening, whether the local substation of the state police would be replaced, the councilmen unanimously voted to discontinue paying rent for the troopers' quarters in the Topper building, Baltimore street, after October 1.

The state police sub-station here was closed late in August by Captain Stout, who refused to divulge how long the station would be closed, although he intimated that it was not to be permanent. The impression gained currency locally that the troopers would be returned within two months, but definite word to that effect has never been learned.

The quarterly rent for the quarters in the Topper building was $90, and a bill for that amount was presented to council, with a letter from Attorney Raymond F. Topper asking council if it wished to continue renting the rooms. Council then voted to discontinue paying the rent for the quarters. Several members said after the vote was taken that if the state wishes to place troopers here again, suitable quarters would be found.

Claim Error In Fees
A communication was read from the Adams County Republican Women's Club, signed by Mrs. Ralph Wierman, as secretary, asking council to erect a public comfort station. The matter was tabled with the statement that council's budget for 1926 is made up and that no extraordinary expenditures were justified at this time.

A letter from the state highway department was read, informing council of certain fees "erroneously" paid to the borough by local justices of the peace, and asking for action for the repayment of such fees to the highway department. The total of the "erroneously-paid" fees is $240.

According to Solicitor Swope, the money in question was due the state from the local justices involved, but not collectable from council, and at his suggestion no action was taken on the matter.

It was pointed out that when fines are collected for charges of reckless driving, they are due the state, but when laid for speeding, as such, the fines must be turned over to the borough in which the alleged violations occurred. Council was informed the various actions on which the fines were collected and $240 of them turned over to the borough were really fines for the charge of speeding, but that local justices had the charges listed as reckless driving on their dockets.

The state highway department, council suggested, should endeavor to collect the fines' money from the justices who imposed them.

ACADEMY TRIPS CARLISLE, 14-0

Gay and Martin Make Touchdowns For Prep; Latter Scores After 80-Yard Run.

Gettysburg Academy defeated the Carlisle High School team on the academy field this morning by the score of 14 to 0.

The last half of the game was played in a sea of mud making the ball very difficult to handle. Captain Snyder won the toss and elected to receive, Gay running back the kickoff for 30 yards. An exchange of punts resulted in the academy's first touchdown. Gay punted to Carlisle who in turn punted to Martin on the 20 yard line. He caught the ball on the bounce and ran 80 yards through the whole Carlisle team for a touchdown. The try for the extra point failed. Gay made the second touchdown in the next quarter when he hit the line for eight yards and Fuller had rounded right end for 50 yards. The try for point failed. The third frame netted the academy 2 points, when after a bad pass from center, Fouche was downed behind his own goal. The excellent playing of Snyder, Myerly and Moller in the line and Altobello and Gay in the backfield contributed materially to prep's victory. Fouche and Washington starred for the visitors. Utz, former Gettysburg High School star, suffered (Continued on Second Page)

And That's That

—by—

John Ruth

We doubt if there is another president of any institution that is loved by his students in any way commensurate to the respect and sincere love that the students of Gettysburg College have for Doctor Hanson.

Doctor Hanson has unlimited faith in "his boys." Again he has given a concrete example of this fact by placing each student on his honor concerning Sunday church attendance. There will be no "watchers." Students are placed on their own responsibility and on their highest honor.

THE PLAN WILL BE A SUCCESS. WE DO NOT EVEN QUESTION THAT POINT. THE STUDENTS OF GETTYSBURG WILL CONSIDER THE NEW PLAN A SACRED TRUST AND THEY WILL NEVER BETRAY A TRUST.

All of which goes to prove the contention of this column that President Hanson is dreaming dreams for Gettysburg College that Gettysburg College never dreamed for itself.

The student body will undoubtedly get more and more student government as it becomes worthy of it. The recent action, simple though it may be, will serve as a criterion in the future by which the capacity of the students for self-government in its fullest form can be judged.

WE HOPE THE DAY IS NOT FAR OFF WHEN GETTYSBURG COLLEGE WILL HAVE A SYSTEM OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT THAT WILL BE THE PRIDE OF THE STUDENT WORLD. IF GETTYSBURG DOES NOT—IT CERTAINLY WILL NOT BE DOCTOR HANSON'S FAULT.

As yet we have received no invitations to any of the Klan meetings. Nevertheless, we consider it a "moral victory" that we are still in Gettysburg and able to play with our Underwood.

By the way, should any of the visiting klansmen be unable to secure room accommodations, send them to us. We'll tell them where to go???

Many of the college boys are reported as saying "I told you so" when this column failed to appear last Thursday. It is even reported that some of the college professors held a thanksgiving meeting. However, "discretion is the greater part of valor."

WE SHALL CONTINUE TO KEEP OUR EYES OPEN AND OUR NOTE BOOKS FILLED—WHO CAN TELL WHAT MIGHT TAKE PLACE?

New floors have been laid throughout, all woodwork has been repainted and repairs have been made upstairs and down so that the former Reinevald home would conform to the purposes of a women's social organization. Considerable work still remains to be done in the way of furnishing the place, but the building as it stands today is ready to proceed with the varied activities planned for a Y. W. C. A.

principal sources to wit: manufacturing and agriculture.

Taking these items separately we have the following facts from the fourteenth census for Adams county:

Manufacturing establishments	145
Wage earners	2,040
Wages paid	$1,527,000
Rent and taxes	268,000
Cost of materials	5,462,000
Value of products	8,564,000
Value added by manufacturing	3,101,000

From the above we deduce the manufacturing income of the county represented by the last item $3,101,000.

Agricultural Facts

Number of farms	3451
Average size	80.9 acres
Value of all farm property	$30,473,000
Sales value of all crops and dairy products	$10,886,000

Estimated County Income

Manufacturing as above	$3,101,000
Agriculture as above	10,886,000
Agri. and manu.	$13,987,000

Fifty-two and sixty hundredths percent must be added to this sum for omitted sources of income, not estimated by the census authorities, including such important items as the profit in trade, both wholesale and retail, government, state and municipal expenditures, railroad expenses and the returns upon invested funds bringing the aggregate income of the county to the splendid total of $29,000,000. This would mean a per capita income of $838 as against the average for the state of Pennsylvania as determined by the experts of the national bureau of economic research.

Mr. Risley pointed out, however, that there is every indication that this income has not since been maintained and that the county incomes for 1925 did not exceed $21,000,000, the difference being basically due to agricultural and horticultural conditions.

Turning to an intensive study of county banking conditions, Mr. Risley pointed out that the county possessed eleven banking towns and 16 banks.

In 1924 their aggregate deposits were $11,495,000 or the ratio of bank deposits to total county income was 54%, which was lower than the average for the other states, a condition being rapidly overcome.

Deposits Grow a Million

During the five years under survey Gettysburg banks had enjoyed super-normal prosperity, this growth in deposits being over $1,600,000.

Mr. Risley then complimented the management of the First National Bank upon their recent rapid growth amounting to more than $300,000 in the past four years.

Such growth indicates not only the opportunity existing but an intelligent appreciation of its field by the management and directors of the First National bank.

Intensive community banking means much more than it did formerly, not only must the institution be carefully conducted, but it must enlist the sympathetic cooperation of its stockholders. Banking growth is essentially the creation of confidence and confidence can be best engendered from individual to individual, a field in which the bank stockholders can play an important part.

Banks fortunate enough to have the active cooperation of their stockholders not only conserve but actually create wealth.

sion, discussed the purchase of coal for the new heating plant, now rapidly nearing completion, various sidewalks and curbs and a lengthy talk on increasing fees for digging permits was made. It was pointed out that the present fee of $1 for the right to dig fifty feet in a street was entirely insufficient to pay for the borough work and materials required afterward to place the dug up street in the same condition it was before.

No action was taken, the matter being held over until the November session, when action to increase fees for digging permits and to place a charge on sewer connections to pay the cost of operating the sewage treatment plant will be taken. Hanover, it was stated, has a fee of $4 for a digging permit, and charges property owners for wash stands, sinks and other sewer connections, the revenue from this source being considerable, council was informed.

York Congregation Was First Lutheran Unit West of River According to Dr. A. R. Wentz

Once and for all the question of the oldest Lutheran congregation west of the Susquehanna River has been settled, and the honors go to Christ church, York, according to the Rev. Dr. A. R. Wentz, professor of church history at the Lutheran Theological Seminary here.

For many years the distinction of being the mother church of the Western Pennsylvania Synod has been a moot question, the claimants being Christ church and St. Matthew's church, Hanover. But during the course of his address at one of the meetings held in the York edifice during this week preparatory to its rededication on Sunday after being extensively remodeled, Doctor Wentz described the early church history of this section and declared that the earliest available records show that Lutheranism's first foothold west of the Susquehanna River was at York instead of at Hanover.

Doctor Wentz, who is a recognized authority in the history of the Lutheran church, has recently completed an extensive research into the history of the church in this section of the country, particularly in the early colonial days, and his dictum on the primacy of Christ Lutheran is considered as official among the pastors of this section.

Sufferings of Florida Residents Described in Letter By Mr. Houck

Principal of Crescent City Schools Gives Details of Storm's Havoc in Devastated Districts; People Living in Hastily Constructed Shelters, Clothed in Rags.

The deplorable conditions in which the people, living in the districts of Florida which were ravished by the recent hurricane, are now existing are briefly described in a letter received at the office of The Gettysburg Times, from J. F. Houck, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Houck, Heidlersburg, a graduate of Gettysburg College in the class of 1914, and who is at present supervising principal of the public schools at Crescent City, Florida. Mr. Houck spent the past summer with his parents at Heidlersburg and only recently left for Florida to resume his duties.

The letter is as follows:

September 28, 1926.

My dear Sir:

"I have just returned from a week-end visit to the hurricane stricken section of South Florida, which one week before was visited by one of the greatest hurricanes that history records. Feeling that many of your readers might be interested to learn the true conditions as they exist today among a suffering people, and to have this information given them by an Adams countian, I shall attempt to give you a meager description of the sights I saw. In doing this I trust that the readers of this letter will offer up a prayer of thankfulness to the Almighty that they were saved from these harrowing experiences, and having done this, open their purse strings and give food, clothing, money to these stricken people in order that some of the suffering may be alleviated.

"The hurricane's fury was centered from Fort Lauderdale to Miami and no towns situated between these two cities escaped the ravages of this storm. As we neared Fort Lauderdale we saw the first effects, as most of the trees, long-needle pine, were broken off about ten feet from the ground and those which were not broken or uprooted were leaning at a sixty degree angle. The citrus trees that remained standing were denuded of all fruit, leaves and branches; only the skeleton of the trees remained. The Australian pine which is used for ornamentation along the Dixie Highway in Southern Florida is practically gone. The tree grows to a great height and beautifies the streets and highways as our Norway maple does in the North. These trees are either blown down, broken off, or the outer bark completely blown off. Not a needle remains on the branches. The beautiful royal palm and the coconut palm which add to the beauty of this tropical region are twisted, broken and uprooted, adding heaps of debris on all sides.

"Homes are crushed to earth as though a mighty roller had passed over them. Some are on their side, others are up-side-down. One house may be unharmed while those on either side are complete wrecks. In Dania, Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood the greater portion of the homes are damaged in one way or another. Many of them are total wrecks. Very few of the homes were left with windows in them. The plate-glass windows in these cities are completely gone. It has been estimated that nine-tenths of all plate glass windows in Miami have been destroyed.

"There are very few homes standing between Fort Lauderdale and Miami. It is impossible for any human being to describe this wreckage. The sights one beholds are most pitiful.

"An aged lady was seen attempting to salvage some household articles from the debris of her home. A small family almost in rags was building a crude shelter from the wreckage of their fallen home. Many refugees were headed North barefooted and in rags.

"The business section of Miami is not hurt. Only one exception is that of the Meyer-Keiser bank building, the million dollar structure and one of the tallest buildings in the city, which must be razed to the ground because of its damaged condition. Miami stands on Biscayne Bay which affords an excellent harbor to the city. The waters from the bay swept over the down-town section of the city and all types of vessels have been washed upon Bay Shore Drive and back into the Royal Palm Park, two squares from the bay. A steam schooner has been left high and dry near the drive.

"There are two cause-ways across Biscayne Bay connecting Miami and Miami Beach. These, as well as the Venetian Islands in the bay, have been beautified with palm and tropical shrubbery. Not a semblance of a plant exists on these cause-ways and very few on the islands. The cause-ways are badly damaged. Many places the concrete guard railing has been washed into the sea and deep cavities have been washed in on either side. Miami Beach was the worst sufferer of any of the places visited. One is filled with horror when he beholds the havoc the waves have wrought. Many of the buildings fronting the ocean have been dashed to pieces by the waves. Sand to a depth of three feet has been deposited five squares from the beach. Lawns and streets have been obliterated. Some of the streets have been scraped and the sand is banked on either side as snow is banked on the highways in the North. Many millions of dollars will be required to restore the beauty alone in these devastated cities.

"Churches are filled with the homeless and wounded. The hospitals are filled to their capacity and when one visits these places he comes away speechless. The Red Cross, Angel of Mercy, I think, is feeding and caring for the wounded and homeless. A line of refugees numbering into the hundreds was seen standing in line waiting for the allotment of food. We had our car filled with sugar, canned goods, preserves, and bread which we gave to the Red Cross. We were sorry afterwards that we did not have a truck load of food as it was so badly needed.

"The spirit of fellowship in this catastrophe is beyond our comprehension; this great disaster has made all men brothers. No lamenting is heard. Their grief is buried and all are "carrying on" with one thought in mind, to lend a helping hand, to build a greater and more magnificent Miami. Each man has found something to do and in that work he is happy for he is rendering service to those less fortunate than himself.

"A mother in our city received a message from a married daughter in Miami, saying, 'I am homeless, breadless and in rags.' Her experience was the experience of thousands of others.

"One cannot appreciate the horror of this hurricane without living through the hours of its destruction. With the wind blowing at the rate of 125-130 miles per hour; the rain descending in torrents; the sea in all its fury tossing the ships on to dry land as though they were but bits of cork; the huge waves tearing at the very vitals of the buildings, washing through the streets, bearing away furniture and anything that came in its wake; the crashing to earth of that building or home and with it, in many instances, the occupants who were either crushed to death, drowned or wounded, and with this one cannot get a glimpse or grasp the meaning of the worst hurricane in history. I shall never forget the sights I saw, many being too horrible to relate, and I hope that the American people, or any people, may be saved from a similar catastrophe."

I am,
Very truly yours,
J. F. HOUCK, JR.

SHARES REACH NEW HIGH LEVELS

(By Associated Press.)

New York, Oct. 2.—Alternate periods of weakness and strength characterized today's stock market. Prices which shot upward on an impressive buying demonstration in a few high priced industrials broke sharply on a combination of bear selling and bear trading. Nearly a score of issues were elevated to new high levels for the year or longer during the session. A four point jump in Sloss Sheffield steel was one of the late features. The closing was steady. Total sales approximated 1,000,000 shares.

He who knows only his own side of the case knows little of that.

"Don Juan," screen play by Beas Meredyth, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Don Juan's disillusioned father had earned him "Destroy women or they will destroy you; take their love scornfully—and forget." This advice has made Juan the greatest lover of all time. But his cynicism is suddenly checked by the disarming innocence of Madonna-like Adriana Varanese. Loving her madly, he reforms. Infamous Lucretia Borgia, who loves Juan, and Don Juan, her kineman, who covets Adriana, institute a reign of terror in Rome against the lovers. They capture Adriana and her father, Duke Varanese. To save her father's life Adriana agrees to marry Don Juan.

She felt as if her body had been torn to pieces, as if the whole world had come tottering about her. Nothing was left in life for her now. She must give Juan up, which was far worse than giving up life itself.

She could hear people shouting in the streets, and then falling suddenly silent, as the swift clatter of horses' hoofs sounded on the rough stones before the palace. Suddenly she hated the spring night's beauty, the calm whiteness of the moon, the fragrance of the flowers that swayed in the breeze as if tragedy had not stalked past them a few moments before.

She hated life and all that it would hold for her. Sobbing, she collapsed in the arms of her maid, wishing that death could claim her, yet knowing that for her father's sake she could not seek it.

Juan, at that moment, was impatiently pacing the floor of the hall of his house, pausing to look out of the window, turning to tramp the length of the room again. As the door opened he turned quickly, then hurried forward as Pedrillo ran breathlessly toward him.

"It is true!" the man cried. "Carother impatient about from Juan at any moment. But Juan at that moment was otherwise occupied; for an instant he had forgotten his servant. For at the sound of a step behind him and of the murmur of his name in a woman's voice he had turned, to see Lucretia Borgia standing in the doorway.

She was wrapped in a long, heavy cape, whose hood was drawn over her head and drawn down so that her face was almost concealed. But her great dark eyes looked out from the hood's shadow at Juan, and the cruel curve of her voluptuous red lips was visible even before she threw back the hood.

For a moment she stood staring defiantly at him. Then, after a swift glance at Juan's face, she shrugged her shoulders diffidently, and walked slowly toward him. That one glance had told her that her errand was in vain, so far as winning him was concerned. She would have to rely on the plans that she had laid so carefully, not on her own beauty and the magnetism of her presence.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded, and his voice was like the lash of a whip.

Never had she been so spoken to before.

"Twice I summoned you, and you ignored me," she replied, and she might have been any serving maid suing for his favor, so humble was she. "Tonight I put aside my pride and came to you."

She lifted her face to his, looking up at him from beneath heavy-lidded eyes; her whole body relaxed, yielding. Juan studied her contemptuously. The Borgia—like all the others, except the frail, lovely girl who held his heart in the hollow of her slim little hand.

Pedrillo, coming in hastily, was halfway across the room before he realized who it was who stood there facing his master. He would have been a quick retreat then, but "You tell know where I am going," Juan told her.

dinal Orsini has been thrown into prison—St. Angelo—and they say that the Duke della Varanese is sure to be next!"

Juan caught his breath sharply. If they took Varanese—if Adriana was unprotected, with that pack of wolves, the Borgias and their retainers, ready to fall upon her—horrible!

He felt himself trembling, shaken as he never had been before. The thought of her being in danger unnerved him; for an instant he could not think clearly, could not feel anything but fear for the girl whom he adored, and devastating anger toward the two men who had plotted against her. Then he clenched his hands, pulled himself together, and said curtly to Pedrillo:

"My cape—my sword!" he said curtly to Pedrillo.

The man hesitated, almost protested. This was no night for his master to be abroad, he told himself. Far better to stay at home, within the mellow light of the tall tapers, with some beautiful woman to make him forget that rape and murder stalked the streets of Rome.

"You heard?" Juan demanded, and his voice was like the blade of his own sword.

Shaking his head, Pedrillo hurried away. Useless to argue with the master in this mood! And yet—if only something would happen to keep him here, something that detaining Juan, would also keep Pedrillo safe within the barred doors.

There would be trouble, Pedrillo told himself sadly. The master was pacing the floor impatiently, calling even now "Make haste!" Eager to take his sword and be out into the night, in the service of that white slip of a girl. Curious, that she of all the many who had come into Don Juan's life should be the one to win his heart!

"Had he but taken the Borgias, how much better!" sighed Pedrillo to himself. "She would have fallen like ripe fruit into his arms, and there would have been nothing of all this!"

His taper went out, and he hurried to re-light it, expecting an-

Out of the Past

Happenings of Days Gone by as Chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times, the Files Reveal.

TEN YEARS AGO

Woman Buried in National Cemetery for First Time.—The first woman to be buried in the Soldiers' National cemetery was laid to rest in the grave of her husband yesterday afternoon. The body was that of Mrs. Frederick Reiting, a former resident of Gettysburg. Her husband, a veteran of the Civil War, was buried in the National cemetery about twenty-five years ago. At her death less than ten years ago, Mrs. Reiting was laid to rest in Evergreen cemetery and the remains were there, until a daughter made arrangements for her mother's burial in the grave of her father.

Now under the recent ruling of the Department, wives of veterans may be buried with their husbands.

Close High Street School till Friday for Diphtheria.—Gettysburg school children who attend this building will have another forced vacation. Following on the heels of the recess caused by the infantile paralysis quarantine, a case of diphtheria, that of Elizabeth Mumper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mumper, Baltimore street, has been reported. The child is in Miss Grace Sach's second grade.

Big Catch of Fish.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Sefton, Baltimore street, on a fishing trip yesterday, report a catch of eighteen fine bass.

Reed—Bowling.—Miss Madeline Bowling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bowling, of Fairfield, and Lloyd Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed, also of Fairfield, were married at a high nuptial mass in St. Mary's Catholic church, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Guise.

Borough Schools Open with Record Number of Pupils.—The enrollment breaks all records and causes a very perplexing seating problem in the various schools.

At the high school the enrollment was 210. It is expected that more new pupils will arrive next week. The total number of non-resident pupils in the high school is about 70. The school board derives a good revenue from this source. The amount last year was about $1500.

Prof. H. B. Moyer, the new supervising principal, will visit the various schools next week.

High School Football Candidates at Practice.—Candidates are working out at Kurtz playground under the direction coach, Walter D. Reynolds. Fifteen men have been practicing for the last week. Eight of last year's team are available. They are Captain Gilliland, Robert Thompson, Earl Thompson, Shoop, Oyer, Beard, Kissinger and Stahl. "Hen" Bream, a Junior, is being used at quarterback and is showing good form in handling the team.

Waynesboro Business College, Frederick, Chambersburg and Waynesboro High Schools are scheduled to play both at home and away from home.

Athletic Association at High School Formed.—The Gettysburg High School Athletic Association was reorganized with 70 members. The officers elected, are: President, Edwin Shoop; vice president, Henry Bream; secretary, Harold Mumper; treasurer, Prof. Reynolds; assistant, William Weaver.

Lloyd Gilbert '19 has been elected captain of the baseball team for next year.

Joins the Ford Army.—W. Lavere Hafer, Carlisle street, has purchased a Ford touring car. The report that Mr. Hafer had traded in his Packard as part payment is incorrect.

Physician Moves Office.—Dr. C. G. Crist has removed his office from the Sanders property, East Middle street, to the property he recently purchased from Dr. George C. Cobean, Chambersburg street.

Personal Items.—Miss Martha Neely will leave Sunday for Philadelphia where she will enter the training school for nurses at the Presbyterian hospital.

Miss Marguerite Weaver, West High street, has gone to Marysville where she will teach in the public schools there.

Miss Bessie Kelly, York street, has gone to attend Darlington Seminary at West Chester.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Emory Steinor, Mummaburg street, on Friday, a daughter.

Mrs. Harry Garlach returned to her home on Chambersburg street, after visiting with relatives in Silver Run, Maryland.

Arthur G. Taughinbaugh, York street, has enrolled as a student in the course of commerce and finance, Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Ruth Bender and Miss Caroline Blocher went to Philadelphia yesterday to enroll as students at the Beechwood School, Jenkintown.

Guernsey.—Cyrus Griest, who has been on the sick list, is able to be up and around again.

Miss Grace Rouzer, Gettysburg, spent Saturday evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rouzer.

Those who spent Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rice were: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rouzer, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hartzell, Misses Anita, Mabel and Lorraine Rouzer, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shetter, Catherine Rouzer, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Hartman, Evaline Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Peters, Earl Garretson, Mrs. Peters, Roy Diehl, Claire Hartzell, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rice, Ora Nary, Miss Ida Crum, Charles Raffensperger, Miss Irene Black, Frank Mauss, Myrna Shetter, Mary Shetter, Cecilia Arendts, Ruth Reed, Olga Shetter, Lloyd Shetter and Lloyd Garretson.

Liberty Hall.—Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd and daughter, Ruth, Orrtanna, were recent visitors at the home of Martin Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Riffle and Mrs. Bentzel, Emmitsburg, Maryland, spent Sunday at the home of Jacob Bentzel.

PROHIBITION IN IOWA

From the Burlington Post.
We venture the assertion that nineteenth of all the court costs in this county, in this state and in the federal courts are those in liquor prosecution. The fact that convictions are secured in less than twenty-five per cent of the cases has no bearing on the bills of costs. The further potent fact that this nation-wide crusade is not lessening the consumption of intoxicants does not seem to affect the zeal of the champions of this peculiar social regulation. Nor is the faith of ultimate triumph at all shaken in the prohibition zealot by the cumulative evidence that in almost every community, and nearly everywhere, officers under oath to enforce this law are selling privileges and exemptions under it. The whole political fabric of the nation is being corrupted by this law.

WE OFTEN hear it said that there is little left in the world to explore. It is true that the big things seem to have been found.

Intrepid explorers have nailed both the North and South Pole. The dark continents have had light streamed into their mysteries so that mankind knows more today than the wisest ever dreamed about a century ago.

The school boy is a wise man of a hundred years ago! But there is one thing in this world that has been very much neglected by explorers. I refer to the Human Heart. Who is there who has learned one half of its mysteries, its beauties, its hidden wealth?

People continue to mine for gold and silver and precious stones—forgetting that there is no mine in the world so rich as the Human Heart. Just to live in a rich heart for a time—and really live there—is a privilege that only a very few enjoy, for there are only a few who have ever explored there.

Go into the simplest life and ask for a little time in that heart. It is amazing what treasures there are that fairly turn up their faces and smile—as though hungry for fellowship and understanding.

Intelligence is a fairly common inheritance and acquirement. But Understanding is a gift that only the great God seems able to endow a Heart with.

To explore a Human Heart and find in there rich deposits of understanding is enough to thrill any man or woman in search of his or her greatest desire. That desire which is above diamonds and rubies and precious metals.

Never deplore your lack of opportunity when the greatest opportunity of all lies within your reach—that of exploring the Heart of another Human Being.

Well, by and by—Bobbie Redvest reached the dear Old Bramble Patch, and lighting on the nose of the Yellow Dog Tramp, who was resting on the back porch of the little white bungalow, he merrily chirped:

"Good old dog, here is your ring. I'm so happy I could sing. Thanks to clever Jimmy Jay I could get the ring away from that thieving Danny Fox in his tiptoe woolen socks."

"Goodness me, I'm delighted," joyfully marked the old dog, and handing the little ring to Lady Love, he said with a happy bow wow: "I've always wanted to give you something, kind little lady. You have been so good to me; fed me, housed me and treated me kindly."

Well, sir. That little ring fitted the pretty rabbit lady's finger perfectly, and while she was admiring it, all of a sudden sounded the honk of the old gentleman rabbit's horn, and the next minute up the little winding path came dear Uncle Lucky, all out of breath and full of anxiety. And along came Jimmy Jay, perhaps even more anxious to see what was going to happen.

"Now please don't telephone the Policeman Dog to arrest Danny Fox," begged sweet Lady Love, when the old gentleman rabbit, all indignant and fiery after hearing how the old fox had stolen the ring from the Yellow Dog Tramp, hopped into the tiny white bungalow to call up the Station House. "I could never wear it if every time I looked at it I were reminded that Danny Fox had been thrown into jail. No, I just couldn't bear to wear it if I knew he was separated from Bushytail and Slyboots."

"Pooh, pooh," exclaimed Uncle Lucky. But just the same, he didn't lift up the telephone receiver.

"I'm satisfied," cried the Yellow Dog Tramp.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Jimmy Jay. "I've had a lot of fun out of it. Everybody in the Shady Forest knows what has happened. Danny Fox won't have a do you think," he shouted, "Danny Fox asked me to give this letter to mother. Dear me, I was so frightened when he stopped me a few minutes ago. I thought he was going to drop me in his gunny sack and carry me off on his hairy back."

Then the Yellow Dog Tramp, Jimmy Jay and Bobbie Redvest gathered around the little lady rabbit, who quickly opened the envelope and read aloud: "Dear Lady Love: I'm sorry I stole the ring. Hope you will all forgive me."

BASS FISHERMEN HAD

GOOD SPORT THIS YEAR

Bass fishermen are having a good season in Pennsylvania reports to the state fish commission indicate. This fish affords some of the best sport of all game species experts say.

Bass were introduced into Pennsylvania more than a half century ago and last year the streams and lakes were stocked with hundreds of thousands. State officials say it is one fish which will eat nothing but live food and for this reason preys upon other species of fish.

ROMANCE IS DYING

From the New York Times.
Camels, caravans, deserts have always been symbols of romance. Now comes the report that camels are giving way to autos on the route to Bagdad. A few years ago it was stated that the Gobi Desert in Mongolia, which since time immemorial had been crossed only on camelback, was to have a bus line. Last year from Northern Africa came stories that the Sahara was being traversed by automobiles to the detriment of the caravans of old.
Bagdad should have been spared this de-romantization. During the war the British army in Mesopotamia freely used motor transports. Since then many an airplane has flown over the Syrian desert. The organization of a regular trucking service was inevitable. But we who sit at home with only the Arabian Nights to go by cannot hope that some jinni will rub the lamp and dispel these signs of modernization before ever we have occasion to visit Bagdad.

PIANOS

Factory to Home Prices

You can pay the factory direct or to our store in Gettysburg.

FRANCIS BACON PIANOS have been manufactured since 1789, from President Washington to Coolidge, and have always endured the test of time.

LESTER PIANOS have been manufactured at Philadelphia, for the past eighty years. The present output is 12,000 pianos annually. They have a factory department adapted especially to the building of Grand Pianos. These pianos are found in hundreds of the foremost Universities, Conservatories of Music, Schools, Churches and Churches abroad.

BALDWIN PIANOS are of the highest grade in the world. The Baldwin pianos have graced the portals of the White House for the past twenty years. Mrs. Coolidge recently purchased a Grand Piano. The Chicago Opera Company use the Baldwin as the official piano. It is used exclusively by such celebrated artists as De Pachmann, Schwarwenka, Alda, LaForge, Sembrich and others.

HADDORFF PIANOS, one of the finest produced in the Middle West. A piano noted for purity, sweetness, sustaining power and uniform fullness.

Owing to our buying power for the three stores, namely, Gettysburg, Hanover and Hampstead, enables us to buy in carload quantities, thereby selling direct to the consumer by factory prices.

Player Pianos—Slightly Used as low as $325
Upright Pianos—Slightly Used as low as $75
